I went through this somewhat quickly. I have some complaints and suggestions.

1. The word "resiliency" is a pretentious synonym for "resilience" which itself is a pretentious stretch from its basic meaning in Physics. You're just using it to make people feel good.
2. "Utilize" is nothing but a wasteful synonym for "use." It wastes characters, syllables, and cyberspace. It's pretentious. Stop using it.
3. You are not clear on the concept of Community Area. On p. 37, you speak of "77 communities" in Chicago. There are 77 Community Areas in Chicago. These are official, and the words should be capitalized. The word "community" is somewhat vague, which is okay. The concept of Community Area is well and explicitly defined for Chicago. On pp. 61, 72, and probably more, you failed to correctly capitalize Community Area(s) where you used this term.
4. On p. 52, you say you will "Identify and remove barriers to job participation." Like the age discrimination which nixed my expected interview with The Home Depot this spring? How about all kinds of job discrimination? Will your plan commit to helping all Chicago residents who want/need a job, secure true full employment, per my attached article? Will it include ME? Will Mayor Lightfoot and all the honchos of this plan sign my petition to prove their support?
